

Dearborn Historical Commission Offers Building Plaques

Homeowners...Do you have a historic building? If so, we'd like to suggest a way to help you say so.

The Dearborn Historical Commission is continuing a program that started about two decades ago to recognize the historical significance of residences and commercial structures built at least 100 years ago. Please note, this is a voluntary program initiated by the Dearborn Historical Commission; this program does not offer any historical preservation protection to your property, nor does it restrict or limit modifications to your home or property.

The cost of the plaque is $175.00, the actual cost to the Historical Commission.

Attached is a sample picture. The size is 10 inches by 8 inches. The items are made of brass and are blue and gold, the City's colors. The plaque prominently features the year of your home's construction.

In addition, the Historical Commission would like to record the historical background of your home for the City's archives, located at the Dearborn Historical Museum's McFadden-Ross House. Ultimately, we plan to issue a publication celebrating our historic structures.

If you are interested in reflecting the historic importance of your home through the installation of a plaque, please contact Glenn O'Kray by phone (313-724-8203) or by email, lglenokray@cavtel.net.
